

Ahmedabad Metro Phase 3 Gets PIB Clearance, Dholera Airport Link Moves Closer

AHMEDABAD (Metro Rail News): The Public Investment Board (PIB) has approved the proposed Phase 3 expansion of the Ahmedabad Metro. This will create a 60 km network with a planned connection to Dholera International Airport. The Gujarat Metro Rail Corporation (GMRC) is developing the project. It needs final approval from the Union Cabinet before civil construction can start.

Ahmedabad Metro Phase 3 to expand network towards Dholera

A key part of Phase 3 is the new corridor from Thaltej Gam to Badrabad via Godhavi. The line will begin at Shilaj Canal Road and follow the Sardar Patel Ring Road. It will go through important areas and intersections like Bopal and Shantipura before reaching Badrabad near the Ahmedabad-Dholera Expressway. The Badrabad terminal is planned as a future connection point for extensions towards the Dholera Special Investment Region (SIR) and Dholera International Airport. The new corridor is expected to improve connectivity for the growing residential, commercial, and institutional areas in southwest Ahmedabad.

Metro link to Sports Hub

Ahmedabad Metro Phase 3 plan will also link the metro network with the South West Ahmedabad Sports Arena (SWASA) at Godhavi. This sports complex is being developed as a major sporting facility and could host significant events in the future, including those related to Gujarat's bid for the 2030 Commonwealth Games. A direct Metro connection is expected to make this venue more accessible from different parts of Ahmedabad.

Next Step: Union Cabinet approval

The PIB clearance marks a significant step for the Ahmedabad Metro Phase 3 expansion. But, the project still requires final approval from the Union Cabinet before construction can begin. If approved, the expansion will extend Ahmedabad Metro towards rapidly developing areas around the city and create a future transit link to Dholera.

Gujarat CM Bhupendra Patel meets JPMorgan, Uber, IBM in New York to woo investors

Gujarat Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel held a series of one-on-one meetings with senior executives of JPMorgan, Golub Capital, Tillman Global Holdings, and Uber in New York on 22 August, and visited IBM Research at Yorktown Heights, as part of a high-level delegation tour of the US and Canada. The engagements centred on investment in GIFT City, data centre infrastructure in Dholera, urban mobility, and collaboration in artificial intelligence, quantum computing, and semiconductors — all ahead of the Vibrant Gujarat Global Summit 2027.

GIFT City Takes Centre Stage

Patel's meeting with JPMorgan focused on accelerating GIFT City's evolution as an international financial centre. JPMorgan reaffirmed its commitment to the hub and outlined plans to deepen its presence and expand business operations there. Separately, Jerry Keefe, Co-President of Golub Capital, expressed interest in investing in GIFT City and in connecting global players across banking, insurance, and exchange activities with the GIFT City platform.

'The growing confidence of such institutions would help further strengthen the financial centre's position,' Patel said. The back-to-back financial sector meetings signal a concerted push to position GIFT City as a credible rival to established offshore financial hubs in Asia.

Dholera Pitched as Data Centre Hub

At his meeting with Sanjeev Ahuja, Founder and Chairman of Tillman Global Holdings, discussions zeroed in on Gujarat's emerging data centre sector. Ahuja praised the state's Data Centre Policy, noting that 'an appropriate policy environment and strong government-industry cooperation could advance growth in the sector.' The talks also highlighted Dholera's potential to emerge as a hub for next-generation digital infrastructure. This comes amid a broader national race among Indian states to attract hyperscale data centre investment, with Gujarat positioning its greenfield Dholera Special Investment Region as a key differentiator.

Uber Eyes Tier-2 and Tier-3 Expansion

Uber expressed interest in expanding its footprint in Gujarat's smaller cities, with discussions covering improved transport and connectivity in Tier-2 and Tier-3 urban centres. The company also explored partnership opportunities around major sporting events to be hosted in Gujarat — a nod to the state's growing profile as a sports infrastructure destination following the expansion of Narendra Modi Stadium in Ahmedabad.

IBM Research Visit: AI, Quantum, and Semiconductors

The delegation's visit to IBM Research at Yorktown Heights covered potential collaboration in research and development across artificial intelligence, quantum computing, and semiconductors. The delegation was briefed on advanced research and innovation across the three domains, with discussions examining knowledge-sharing frameworks and deeper R&D ties between IBM and institutions in Gujarat and India. Notably, Patel had earlier told the Gujarati diaspora in San Francisco that the state was prioritising these very sectors — semiconductors, AI, data centres, and biotechnology — signalling a coherent technology-led investment narrative across the US leg of the tour.

Broader Context: Vibrant Gujarat 2027 Pitch

The New York engagements are the latest in a series of outreach efforts ahead of the Vibrant Gujarat Global Summit 2027, Gujarat's flagship biennial investment conclave. The state government said the discussions are expected to generate further opportunities in investment, employment, technology, research, and innovation. Patel also called for stronger linkages between global Gujarati talent and industries back home to drive knowledge transfer and technological collaboration. The delegation is expected to continue its engagements in Canada before concluding the North America visit.
